Research Overview

My research focuses on understanding the web at a global scale. I combine large-scale measurement and systems building to study how the web works in practice and who it actually serves, especially outside Western contexts. I aim to replace informal intuitions about the web with rigorous evidence that can inform both system design and policy.

Education

Ph.D. Candidate in Computer Science, Stanford University — Expected 2028
M.S. in Computer Science, Stanford University — 2026
B.S. in Computer Science, LUMS — 2023

➔ Senior Thesis: A Framework for Improving Web Affordability and Inclusiveness
